LRC Furniture gets a facelift

BY B€KA KASH

CLOCKTOWER CHRONICLE STAFF ith new pretty patterns and comfy cushions, the furniture in the Learning Resource Center at Rend Lake College has received a little makeover.

Through the Illinois Correctional Industries (ICI), 20 pieces of furniture have been updated to a modern look and made more comfortable. According to the Illinois Department of Corrections website. the ICI provides inmates with the skills and training necessarv to be successful upon release from prison. The revenue the ICI generates from the sale of its products funds its entire operation.

Randall Shively, director of RLC's Physical Plant, said,

"Through the ICI there is a program where inmates at correctional facilities in Illinois do the work of refinishing and upholstering furniture. They pick up the furniture and bring it back when they are done and RLC pays a fee for each piece. The furniture in the LRC is from the [mid-1970s] and this is only the second time it has been refurnished."

Beth Mandrell, reference librarian at RLC, said, "The furniture was worn, dirty and the material was torn." Mandrell also mentioned that the furniture was fixed quickly and she is happy with the work done.

So, for students looking for a place to kick back, relax, and do some studying, head on over to the LRC and put the refurbished furniture to good Andrea Hetzel catches up on some reading last week on the reupholstered furniture in the Learning Resource Center. The furniture was improved through a self-funded Illinois Department of Corrections program.

Studio RLC blends training with services for all-around experience

BY BRECCA MULLINAX CLOCKTOWER CHRONICLE STAFF

ver the years, Rend Lake College has continued to give students an effective mix of education and real-life experiences. Much of that is due to the slew of great assets leading students in that direction, such as terrific administrators, Associate Professor Greg Hollmann, and, of course, our wonderful in-depth programs such as Cosmetology at Studio RLC.

The Cosmetology program Studio RLC, located at the Rend Lake College Market-Place in Mt. Vernon, is run by Director Daphne Mitchell. It is one of the newer programs to RLC and happens to be fairly competitive, with approximately 50 students enrolled this fall semester. Luckily for the students on the waiting list, the program takes only 11 months for full-time day students, attending 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and every third Satur-

If that doesn't fit the schedule, there's also a 24-month evening course. This convenient format is offered to students from 5:15-9:15 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and every other Saturday.

That all sounds great. But what about the actual things students learn in the program? Do students get hands-on experience?

"We are a full-service cosmetology school offering haircuts, color, foiling, perming, hair removal, facials, makeup application, specialty styles, hair extensions, pedicures, manicures, and acrylic nails," Mitchell

draws closer and closer every day, the Clocktower Chronicle staff thought it would be nice to provide a roundup of area races and who is running in them. The staff hoped to poll each political candidate in contention. However, time was short, life got in the way — as it often does — and this goal was not met. Writers were able to grab a sample ballot from Jefferson, Franklin, Hamilton, Perry and Wayne counties in order to take a look at each seat up for grabs in the presidential, congressional, state and local races. With all the political commercials, billboards and road signs to take in lately, the Chronicle hopes this will help the student body get an organized look at the November election. Election day is Nov. 6. The most important reason for this story is to encourage Rend Lake College students to vote. The nation's 32nd President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, once said, "Nobody will ever deprive the American people of the right to vote except the American people themselves and the only way they could do this is by not voting."

The step before voting is registering to vote.

For those away from home or without time on Tuesday, there are mechanisms in place to help get to the polls. Grace period voting started Oct. 10. This is for individuals who are not registered to vote either because they never registered or they have moved — like students away from home at college. The grace period continues through election day, Nov. 6. Students away from home, such as from another state or another part of Illinois, have the option of voting absentee (see more about that later) or registering to vote here in the county where they are living. This is especially good for students who are mostly concerned with voting in the presidential race.

Early voting is going on now for those who are registered and would like to do so.

"We've had people come in here and vote early because they are not going to be here for the election and they want to vote. The last day for [early voting] is November 3," said Debbie Richardson, deputy clerk of Wayne County.

Absentee voting is for those who are age 60 years or older,

Pell Grants make college accessible to many students

BY RHEANNA GRIZZELL

clockTOWER CHRONICLE STAFF
oing to college is a huge step towards becoming a more successful worker, a more educated individual, a more critical thinker, and a more teamoriented communicator — but who is going to pay for it?

College students, young and old alike, must find a way to make ends meet while buying books, paying for tuition, keeping gas in their car, and feeding themselves and their families. Even though the costs are high, there are a few options to the undergraduate community, and one of them is the Pell Grant. Without it, many students would not be able to step foot in a college classroom.

A Pell Grant is a form of money given to undergraduates by the government, based on financial need, and — different from student loans — does not have to be paid back. In essence, this money ensures an easier and less stressful educative process for low-income students and their future success. One must fill out an application — the Free Application for Federal Student Aid, or FAFSA — to determine if a student is eligible to receive Pell funding.

According to the American Association of Community Colleges, the Federal Pell Grant program has enabled 9.5 million students overall to pursue a degree in 2010-2011, — 3 million of which are pursuing an education at a community college. That is a large amount of people who could potentially not be able to attend college.

At Rend Lake College, several students attribute their current attendance and financial ease to the Pell Grant. As stated by officials in RLC's Financial Aid Office, there are 11,059 people receiving Pell Grants this year alone, and the dollar amount those people have collected equals $2,557,680.55.

Alissa Webb, a current Radiologic Technology student, says, "It helped me pay for my college. ... If I had to pay, I would have to get loans and pay for it after I graduated."

One man described his dire need of the Pell Grant. "It gives me the opportunity to provide for myself and my future family. Without it, I would not be able to do any of that," said Casey Johnson, a student of Big Sandy Community Technical College in Kentucky.

Obviously, the Pell Grant program is extremely necessary to the pursuit of higher education for most people. It enables thousands of individuals at RLC and millions of students in the United States to attain a degree.

A student in Rend Lake College's architecture program uses the program's new 3D printer.

Printing goes 3D in architecture program

BY BRECCA MULLINAX

end Lake College architecture students recently printed a crescent wrench. They didn't print a picture of a crescent wrench. They printed an actual wrench that can be held and works, thanks to the program's new 3D printer.

How does it work? The printer itself makes use of two materials in its system: an ABS plastic and a water-soluble support material. The materials are fed into the machine and heated by two print heads. Using the X axis and Y axis, the printer builds the object from the ground up.

The support material is then soaked in a post-print solution in order to dissolve it from the ABS plastic. After developing the model, this printing process can take anywhere from 30 minutes to 30 hours, depending upon the size of what a student is printing.

It may sound difficult.
Not to worry, according to Architecture Instructor Matt Jackson, the process is fairly easy for users trained on making their third-dimensional digital models compatible to the printer's setup.
Although it may be difficult for those who have not had the training, RLC does offer the curriculum in architecture to help with that.

The 3D printer itself has already benefited RLC's students with its ability to create architectural, industrial, and mechanical prototyping, which enables them to see the models they create come to life. In fact, furniture pieces, organic pieces, and small architectural models have already been created!

"We can actually replicate what the industry is doing, here at Rend Lake College, and train our students to better fit the industry needs," said Jackson.

With the training, benefits and experience this 3D printer gives students, it has made it both a great asset and investment to RLC.

How to avoid even one alcoholic drink

METRO CREATIVE CONNECTION Icohol has its place in society but not behind the wheel and not at all if you're the designated driver, responsible adults agree. For college students and baby boomers alike, just one drink of alcohol can impair the senses to a degree, and just one seems to lead too easily to another.

The trick for pulling off abstinence when others are drinking is to be resolute from the start by bringing, or ordering, a tasty alternative, experts say.

"Today you can actually get a zero-alcohol, whiskyflavored drink," says Sylvie Seguinaud at ArKay Beverages Inc., a leading name in this field. "We worked for several years to produce a genuine simulation of whisky for its taste, looks and aroma and to date, the public response has been phenomenal. Drink it straight up, on the rocks or with your favourite mixers. This fall, a pre-mixed version with cola will be on grocery shelves, too."

And yet, a few pointers on how to turn down a drink effectively are always welcomed, especially for students. Here's a few tips, courtesy of ArKay:

 Don't feel alone or less cool for abstaining since a good slice of the trending is doing it, too. Recent stats from the American College Health Association show that

'Bad Bubba'

Cardinals' season Coach Tate shares comes to a close

BY JOSH MYERS

CLOCKTOWER CHRONICLE STAFF he St. Louis Cardinals' 2012 season came to a disappointing close on Monday, Oct. 22, against the San Francisco Giants.

The Cardinals finished the regular season 88-74 to earn a Wild Card spot in the National League Playoffs. They defeated the Atlanta Braves in the Wild Card round.

It took the Cardinals all five games to advance past the Washington Nationals in the divisional round. This series included a comefrom-behind win in game five over the Nationals – at that time, the best team in baseball.

In the National League Championship Series against the San Francisco Giants, the Cardinals had a 3-games-to-1 lead before losing the next three, including a 9-0 shutout in game seven, which eliminated them from playoff contention. The Giants advanced to the World Series with the American League's Detroit Tigers.

The season may be over, but the organization and its fans have much to be proud of. The team led the league with a .338 on base percentage and was fourth in batting average (.271). Six players were added to the NL All-Star roster.

Twenty-five-year-old pitcher Lance Lynn went 18-7 with a 3.78 ERA to earn him a spot on the NL All-Star roster, while 34year-old Kyle Lohse went 16-3 with a 2.86 ERA.

Catcher Yadier Molina had a solid season with a team-high batting average of .315 and excellent defense to earn a spot on the All-Star roster.

Right fielder Carlos Beltran led the team in home runs with 32 to go along with his .269 batting aver-

Left fielder Matt Holliday led the team in three offensive categories. He had 102 runs batted in on 177 hits while leading with a .379 on-base percentage.

Third baseman and hometown hero David Freese ended the season with a .293 batting average and 20 home runs.

Under first-year manager Mike Matheny, the Cardinals may not have won "12 in '12," but they sure put up a fight.

he men's wrestling team for Rend Lake College is still relatively new. The program has only been around for seven years. Coach Kevin Tate has been the head coach for all seven years at RLC.

Tate graduated from Southern Illinois University with a degree in history education. He got started coaching high school wrestling in 1988.

His assistant coach, Matthew "Bubba" McLaughlin, is an RLC graduate and former Warrior who went on to wrestle at the University of Wyoming. McLaughlin was also a two-time All-American at RLC.

Tate puts his time in with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

"I coach to give back to the kids" Tate said.

Tate has two important factors to winning: Outwork and out-condition your opponent until they can be beaten easily. According to him, if his athletes can put their opponents in an uncomfortable position, the opponent will give up points.

Tate's motto for his wrestlers: "Give 100 percent. Expect 100 percent. Every day."

ith five new transfers and 18 freshmen, Rend Lake College's wrestling team is primed to make a strong run for the national title.

Returning to the mat this season for RLC is Jovantae Coleman whose nationals run last vear was stopped short due to an injury. Coleman was undefeated and ranked fourth in the country in his weight division heading into the tournament.

"I'm excited about the group. We have an enormous amount of talent." Head Coach Kevin Tate said about his squad.

Division I transfers will play a key part in Rend Lake finding success this season. Eric Tozzi (Belmont Abby) defeated a NCAA qualifier in his weight class by eight points last season. Juan Stimpson (North Carolina State) was a two-time state champion in high school and Justin Cash (Maryland) was a threetime Tennessee high school champion.

"He's very skilled" Tate said about Cash.

Marciano Ali (Elsworth) was a redshirt freshman and also a three-time state champ in North Carolina.

Tate said, "You need a mix of older and younger guys. The younger kids need to look up to the older kids for experience."

Other transfers include Jameel Carter (Wright College) and Andrew Higgins (Neosho Community College). Higgins was fifth at senior nationals.

The Warriors wrestling squad is heavy on new talent and should be a reckoning force on the mat. The season starts Oct. 27 at the Lindenwood University-Belleville ti, Mich. (Nov. 3), Knox Invite in Galesburg (Nov. 10), the Joe Parisi Open in St Charles, Mo. (Nov. 17), the Kaufman Brand Open in Merryville, Mo. (Dec. 2), the Triton Open in
