Maintenance Building Burns

Gas Pocket Explodes

These three views show the destruction of the Rend Lake maintenance building after it was swept by fire early Saturday morning Feb. 5. The interior, exterior, and the contents of the building were completely destroyed.

"You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," is this year's spring musical. Tryouts for the performance will be Mon. and Tues., Feb. 21 and 22 at 3 p. m. in the music room in the gym.

There are only six cast parts available in "Charlie Brown," but if enough people are interested, the cast may be doubled with performances being presented by two different casts. Stage crew volunteers are also needed.

"As in the past, people don't have to be able to sing to be in the show," helpfully explained Cheryl Foley, Director. Scripts and scores may be checked out in Ms. Foley's office, 0-147.

The tentative performance dates are April 21 and 22 (after spring break) at the First United Methodist Church in Mt. Vernon. Student tickets will be available free in the Oasis the week before the performance. Students not having obtained tickets in advance will have to pay the full admission price at the door.

Library Hours Extended

Beginning Tues., Feb. 15 the regular library hours will be extended as follows:

Monday 6-9 p. m.

Tuesday 6-9 p. m.

Wednesday 4-6:25 p. m.

Thursday 6-9 p. m.

This schedule is experimental through March 30. "Any extension beyond that date will depend upon how much use is made of the library during the experimental program," advised Imogene I. Book, Director of the library.

Each person who used the library in the evening will be asked to check a questionnaire each time he uses the library. The questionnaires will be used to help determine the need for continuing the extended hours for evening library service.

Leon Jourdan, who teaches English at Benton Consolidated High School, will be the night supervisor. Mr. Jourdan has a minor in Library Science and work experience in the SIU library. Mary Farmer and Deanna Page, current day-student workers, will alternate evening duty in the library.

The extended evening library hours are a result of a suggestion presented to the Student Senate from the student body and a questionnaire presented to students both in daytime and evening programs. Ms. Book interviewed each person answering the questionnaire and determined that a few really needed and would benefit from night library hours.

"The hours from 6-9 p. m. seemed to be indicated as the preferred times on the questionnaires. The Wednesday hours are slightly different to give students who might not want to drive back to the campus a chance to work late in the library," explained Ms. Book.

The Student Achievement Recognition Program, sponsored by the Illinois Association of Junior Colleges and the Continental Bank, Chicago, gives recognition to two-year college students for their outstanding individual achievement. Janet Raney and Stephen Morris, the winning man and woman from RLC, will each receive a $100 cash award and will move to the district competition which will be held in March. The two district winners will compete in the state finals for a $1,000 cash award.

The final judges for the Student Achievement Recognition

Program were Ms. Virginia Marmaduke, Pinckneyville; Ray Melton, McLeansboro; and Ms. Lester Saxe, Thompsonville.

In March Ms. Raney and Mr. Morris will compete for $250 cash prize in the district competition with the winners from 45 other public junior colleges. Twelve finalists will be selected, two from each district competition and will compete in the state finals for a $1,000 cash award as the outstanding man and woman in the Illinois Junior College System.

Janet Raney and Stephen Morris, winners of the Student Achievement Recognition Program, were characterized by the final judges as students having "solid aims" who would "make it in this world." Each won a $100 cash award and will go on to compete in March for a $250 cash award in the district competition.

(Editor's Note: When I first heard the news about the Maintenance Building, I immediately wondered who blew it up. Later, after I discovered that the incident was an accident, and what was the cause, I couldn't help feeling that it was anticlimatic.)

"Roy Laur, the night watchman, heard a small explosion, stepped outside the teacher's lounge and saw flames shooting up over my office," began Bob Webb, head of maintenance in describing what happened.

"He tried to use the telephone outside, but the wires had already burnt. He used up the fire extinguisher on the fire, then ran up to the main buildings to use the phone there. That didn't work either, so he drove to the fire chief's house in Ina," finished Mr. Webb.

The cause of the fire and subsequent explosion was determined to be a gas leak in Mr. Webb's office. "The gas hovered up until it got to one of the furnaces where the pilot light ignited the gas, causing the explosion," Webb explained. "The intense heat melted the solenoids on four furnaces causing more gas to leak."

The building and its contents were fully covered by insurance, so that the loss of the building will not affect the budget in any way. "Although we're not sure, we hope that the building can be replaced within the next 30-60 days," said Mr. Webb.

The same type of building will go back on the original spot. "We are buying what we need week by week for emergency maintenance," added Mr. Webb. The new maintenance headquarters is now where the art department used to be.

In losing the maintenance building, the college lost more than maintenance equipment. Contained in the building were not only tools, janitorial, electrical and plumbing supplies, administrative supplies and records such as bills, library supplies and school papers, but also everything stored by the faculty, such as Betty Ann Ward's punch bowl. Also lost was the yard equipment (the road grader, tractor, snow-sweeper), extra furniture, the folding chairs for concerts, and the Student Senate decorations and sign-making equipment.

"We're almost back where we started as far as maintenance is concerned," stated Mr. Webb. "We won't be able to do as much for everyone as we used to do. We hope that everyone will bear with us."

Character Analysis Through Horoscopes?

By Jean Bondi

For a while now there has been great interest in Astrology and Horoscope Character Analysis. Many books are available to acquaint you with this system of making discoveries about yourself.

Astrology is so popular that many manufacturers capitalize on the signs of the Zodiac. The newspapers give a daily forecast of what the stars predict for your day.

I don't really take the Horoscope Character Analysis too seriously. In the main I enjoy reading the analysis of the different signs of the Zodiac.

Sometimes I read the analysis of the sign of a friend or a new acquaintance to see if the analysis reveals their true character.

I am very much amazed when I read the analysis of my own sign Pisces. It is true when it says I have a "capacity for deep feeling and am likely to forego material considerations in favor of those that manifest a more sentimental aspect." I find many of the characteristics of Pisces to be true of my own character from my own point of view, maybe not how others see me.

If you mention Horoscope or Character analysis to some people, it really sets them off. One Scorpio emphatically said, "It is a bunch of rubbish!"

Others are skeptical. A Piscean told me, "What little I've read about Astrology, etc., makes me skeptical." He added he would be willing and interested in reading more on the subject.

One born under the sign of Virgo said she had just recently become interested in it, "The description of me is very true." Most character analysis describes her as emotionally sensitive, sometimes in excess, hard working yet moody under certain conditions. She found these to be true. She also found it essential to go further back to ancient knowledge and relate astrology to the building of pyramids.

Many people find the character analysis fun to read but not to be taken too seriously. A Cancerian said she found it, "Fun to read, part of it fits, part is very true. If people read it they will look at themselves. It is impossible to fit everyone."

While some people either dislike it quite a lot or just find it interesting and just for fun, there are some who take it very seriously.

I talked to a Virgo who said, "I believe it. I find a lot of it true and I take it half-way seriously."

A Leo, a devout believer in most parts of Horoscopes, and Character Analysis when interviewed, said excitedly, "I believe in it! They are most pertinent. I don't believe in the daily forecast but the character analysis mostly fit!" She is widely read on the subject and would like to convert everyone to be a believer.

At the time of a person's birth there is a planetary picture formed in the sky which is never exactly the same again. This horoscope view of the hour helps astrologers see the energy potential of a person and can be interpreted in terms of human values.

Some people feel strongly about astrology, horoscopes, forecasts and character analysis. Some of the staff, faculty and students of RLC, when asked what their feelings were regarding horoscopes and Character Analysis said:

Dottie Thompson, a Virgo, said "This book is not complete enough. You need more information to see your true character. You need to know the signs, planets and exact time of your birth." She had great interest in astrology and offered to do a true character analysis.

Helen Kite, manager of the snack bar, a Capricorn said, "I am a firm believer in it. Two thirds of it is true. I have a lot of it to come true. I follow the daily forecast in two papers."

Shirley Mann, an Aquarius, said, "I like it. I read it a lot and it must be true. Everything I want to do I get done—it said I was ambitious."

Bryan Wilt, Aquarius, "It is surprising how much turns out to be true. Sometimes it is scary . . . I don't know if I enjoy it or if I'm curious."

Aries Bob Bigham said, "I thought it was great. Mine said I was high strung and yet I'm down . . . this was true."

Rebecca Bondi, a Leo, said, "I think they are cool. I think there is a lot of truism in them. Everything it says about me is true. After reading them I depend too much on what to expect of people according to their analysis instead of just finding out about them as I normally would."

David Patton, a Piscean, said "I am skeptical. Surprisingly they are accurate. Characteristic are those I have."

Mary January, a Virgo, "I believe it. I find a lot of it true. I take it semi-seriously."

E. J. DeWitt, Aquarius, "I don't know much about it. Can't criticize and can't say there isn't any truth in it. It might be true science."

An anonymous Virgo student remarked, "I think it is a bunch of Bull." Asked if he had ever read his horoscope he said no.

Brad Davis, a Sagittarian said, "I read it and I agree with it. It fits my wife perfectly. I check the forecast when I wonder about anything. It is very true. Even in romance."

An anonymous Libra said, "It is over generalized . . . A person would fit anywhere."

Of all those I talked to, I found most of them enjoyed reading the Horoscope Character Analysis but didn't let it affect their lives very much.

I think it is a lot of fun to read and it does help you to take a further look at yourself. Sometimes it reveals your secret self.

Sammy Tippit, Chicago street evangelist, and a Christian rock group, "The Living Water," shared with the BSU of RLC their version of Christian commitment.

Sammy Tippit Shares Christian Views With BSU

The Baptist Student Union of Rend Lake College hosted Rev. Sammy Tippit, a Chicago street minister and his group "The Living Water" Wednesday, Feb. 9, in S-110.

"The Living Water," a Christian rock group performed some rock numbers with Christian messages before Sammy spoke about Christian commitment to the BSU.

Sammy told how he had searched for achievement and peace in various things and how all his attempts had failed until he met and experienced the love of Jesus.

He shared with the BSU the idea of getting "high" on Jesus or the "eternal trip." Sammy said after experiencing the love of Jesus, he had done all the drugs he wanted to, drank all the booze he wanted, fought all the fights he wanted to, cussed all he wanted, and had all the sex he wanted. He said Jesus took away all those wants and put him on an eternal trip. He said he had now found real peace in Jesus.

Sammy also left a challenge to the BSU to follow Jesus and to spread the good news of the Bible and help other students at RLC find the true peace, the eternal trip, and real love.

Walter M. Johnson is New Art Exhibitor in Oasis

Walter M. Johnson, Professor of Art at the University of Illinois, will present the next art exhibit in the Oasis beginning February 15. Trained as an art educator, Dr. Johnson has broadened and enriched the concept of art education.

Mr. Johnson motivated and directed adult education programs in art under the University of Illinois Division of University Extension. In 1971, more than 1,300 Illinoisans participated in nine of these major art programs.

Mr. Johnson is supervising the Saturday's Children program for the eighth year. The program encourages creative artistic expression for elementary school children. The staff consists of art professors, art graduates, and undergraduates.

Illinois' most aspiring young artists in high school are chosen to attend week long summer art schools held in Allerton House with Mr. Johnson in charge.

Mr. Johnson is using art as non-verbal therapy for abused children at Chicago's Bowen Center. The mothers and children are successfully venting their destructive side effects of disadvantaged big-city life through artistic self expression.

Handicapped students at UI learn productive skills in the Art 123 class conducted by a team of doctors, occupational and physical therapists, and counselors, and Mr. Johnson. The students learn new useful skills, and at the same time re-adjust to the world.

Besides these innovate programs, Mr. Johnson coordinates the art programs with other sections of the Division of University Extension. There are also slides and filmstrips to consume Mr. Johnson's valuable time.

Mr. Johnson's reception in the Oasis will be February 20 from 2:00 p. m. to 4:00 p. m. His exhibit, consisting of thirty-three pieces, will hang from February 15 through March 14.

Ag Grad On Job

(Editor's Note: The following is one of a series of articles about RLC graduates in the Agricultural field.)

In 1970, Ron Stubblefield, who majored in Agricultural Mechanics graduated from Rend Lake College. He is now employed at Hobbs and Son in Benton.

Stubblefield is a service man with primary responsibility for running the lawn and garden tractor service area. He is also involved with every aspect of the business. According to Ron, "You never know what will come next." He also stated he likes every phase of his job.

During his stay at Rend Lake College, Ron completed requirements for two on-the-job-training courses at Hobbs and Son and upon graduation was employed full time. Both Bill Hobbs and his son, Larry, who operate the business, are well satisfied with their college graduate.

"The first time I saw Franz Liszt, who died in 1886, I was about seven years old." So speaks Rosemary Brown from the town of Baaham, England, where she has lived all of her sixty-some years.

She claims to have been visited by Beethoven, Bach, Brahms, and several other famous composers. The purpose of these visits is to dictate music to Mrs. Brown who writes them down. She has "received" about 400 songs and string quartets.

At first glance these facts appear to be a hoax, but the evidence is highly convincing. Convincing enough to prompt the BBC to present a special program featuring Mrs. Brown and her music. She has even talked with conductor-composer Leonard Bernstein who played several pieces dictated to Mrs. Brown by her "visitors."

When I saw Mrs. Brown on the "Tonight Show" recently, she performed a piece given to her by Franz Liszt. It was a beautiful example of Liszt's music and even more convincing considering she has received no formal musical training except for a few piano lessons.

Mrs. Brown has been examined and re-examined by music experts, psychologists, and psychic experts. So far, no flaw can be found in her story. She has written a book about her experiences called Unfinished Symphonies, soon to be released by the William Morrow Company. She has also recorded an album of her ghostly music.

If Mrs. Brown does communicate with these famous composers, and I see no evidence to believe that she does not, then what is there to prevent her or others from communicating with men like Leonardo da Vinci, Napoleon, or Thoreau. If a link can be established there is no limit to knowledge that can be learned from the past. Maybe even the future.

Veteran's Outreach Program

The first and foremost problem a returning veteran comes in contact with is the perplexing matter of readjusting to civilian life. The national and state governments realize the problem and have put forth efforts to assist the returning serviceman by introducing the Illinois Military Scholarship and G. I. Bill programs.

Although a great majority of returning veterans are aware of these financial aids, many do not take advantage of them. Therefore, the Illinois Veterans Affairs Section of the Governor's Office of Human Resources has developed and initiated the Veteran Outreach Program. This program is designed to inform the veteran of technical, educational and vocational opportunities available to him.

In the state of Illinois, 11 junior colleges were selected for this program with the number of representatives in each district based approximately on enrollment in each junior college. The two representatives designated for this district, Mike Joplin of Benton and Bob Fowler of Mt. Vernon, are both veterans and students at RLC. For information about this program contact either one of the new representatives.

BSU Names Students For Mission Work

The Baptist Student Union of RLC announced Jan. 7 that two RLC students have been selected by the Illinois BSU to serve as missionaries.

Ms. Jan Hutson, a freshman from Sesser, was chosen to devote her summer sharing her faith with other people in the inner-city of St. Louis, Missouri. She will be working with people of all nationalities, race, and ages.

Mr. Fred Vallowe, a freshman from Mt. Vernon, will be working mostly in a park ministry, sharing his Christian beliefs in Ontario, Canada.

On Saturday, February 5, Jim Steed, BSU President and former Summer Missionary, along with 5 other BSU officers in the state of Illinois and state BSU director, Bob Blattner, met for a special missions meeting in Springfield, Illinois.

This meeting was the annual choosing and stationing of students who applied through the BSU of Illinois to devote their summers as Baptist missionaries in different places of the world. The BSU of Illinois is sending 24 students to places like Uganda, Israel, Alaska, and Florida.

These student missionaries are supported by the money made by BSU's of different campuses in the state of Illinois.

Phase I Tooling Up

Rend Lake College will publish Phase One 2 this semester. Last year's students will be familiar with Phase One. New students can pick up a copy in Dr. Evelyn Claxton's office, 0-128.

Phase One 2 will consist of creative writing and art. All forms of creative writing are needed now. Poetry, prose, short stories, essays, dialogues, and any form of creative writing will be accepted.

The art in Phase One last year was not representative of the student body. Art work from non-art students as well as art students is equally acceptable. The art, however, should have enough contrast to reproduce well. All art will be returned.

The editors hoped some of the art would be illustrations of the writings, but this will not be possible unless written material is submitted soon.

All material should be put in the wire basket on the bookcase in Dr. Claxton's office, or given to either Terri Bagwel or Pat Kimble, the editors. Dedicated staff workers are also needed.

Capture 15 Wins Warriors Set Record

By Marty Cox

"The guys were really up for this one," commented Coach Jim Waugh about Wed., Feb. 9th's 86-76 victory over Lincoln Trail. The Warriors' win, their 15th of the season, established a new season victory record.

The previous record was 14 wins, set two years ago by the 1969-70 squad. The Warriors have three regular games remaining in which they could make the magic number 18.

The contest with Lincoln Trail was perhaps the Rend Laker's most impressive victory of the season. The statesmen had defeated the Warriors twice previously this season by running up high scores of 102 and 94.

The game stayed extremely close until late in the second half when Rend Lake put it all together. Both teams started out good, with Rend Lake posting a halftime lead, 40-37. To start the second half, the Warriors caught fire and jumped ahead 55-46. The momentum changed as Lincoln Trail came back to tie it at 60-60 and then went ahead, 66-64.

Ed Case broke the ice for Rend Lake by sinking both in a one-and-one situation to tie at 66-66. Sonny Wyatt then stole the ball from the Statesmen and scored on the fast break. Case found the range for a basket, then Wyatt again stole the ball and scored a lay-up, drawing a foul after the shot. He made both attempts and gave the Warriors a 74-66 advantage.

With less than two minutes showing on the clock Wyatt and Case put the game out of reach with four free-throws, to make it 80-71.

Score by Halves

RLC	40	46	86
LTC	37	39	76

RLC scoring: Wyatt 21, Case 18, Henderson 16, Waters 13, Rusiewski 12, Edson 6.

LTC Scoring: Gatson 23, Alspach 20, Lyles 16, Briggs 9, James 8.

The Rend Lake Warriors escaped with a narrow 93-90 victory over Wabash Valley Wed., Jan. 26, before a home crowd.

The Warriors found much difficulty in establishing a lead throughout the first half, as Wabash Valley went ahead by as many as eight at one time. At intermission, Rend Lake trailed only by two points.

Wabash Valley came out hot to begin the second half as they posted a 55-46 edge, but RLC tied it at 61-61 as Sonny Wyatt delivered a three point play. Both teams remained about even until, with two minutes left, Ronnie Henderson stole a pass and fed to Wyatt on the fast break for two and an 87-86 lead. Chap Waters and Terry Edson sank one free-throw each and Edson hit a bucket at 0:55 to put the game out of reach at 91-86.

"We had real good games out of three guys," remarked Assistant Coach Mike McClure, "but the guys that didn't score were tough under the boards."

Rend Lake failed to collect three straight wins from Kaskaskia as the Blue Devils slid past the Warriors 78-75 Tues. Feb. 2.

The contest was close all the way, with Kaskaskia keeping the lead nearly all the game. The Blue Devils posted a 40-37 halftime advantage, then surged to a 58-49 yeard.

The Warriors made a charge midway through the second stanza as they tied the game at 60-60, then gained a 67-64 edge. The Warrior offense collapsed and the Blue Devils quickly jumped to a 72-67 lead. The free-throws failed to drop for Rend Lake as the one-and-one could have turned the game around.

"We played poor defensive ball against the Blue Devils," stated Coach Waugh. "Every-one of our boys has had the flu at one time or another in the past few weeks and they're still not back to normal. I feel that by tournament time we should be physically stronger and more ready for competition."

Rend Lake stands 2-5 in SICC play and are 12-10 overall for the season.

impressive ball against the Panthers, almost blowing a 13 point lead with less than three minutes remaining on the clock.

The first half for RLC proved to be crucial for the outcome of the game, as the Warriors held an impressive 49-30 edge at intermission.

In the second half only Henderson and Rusiewski could find the mark, thus Rend Lake's lead was not increased. With just over three minutes remaining, Coach Waugh sent in the reserves. The Panthers ripped in 10 quick points as RLC threw the ball away consistently, thus the regulars were brought back into the game. Sonny Wyatt saved the game by sinking a free-throw with just six seconds left.

The Warriors played Greenville back in November, where they blasted them 114-59. "Nothing seemed to go right for the Rend Lakers," stated Coach Waugh concerning the game. "They looked like they were all dead." Whatever the case may be, the Rend Lake Warriors collected another win to maintain a 13-10 overall record.

The Rend Lake Warriors found little difficulty playing basketball Mon., Feb. 7, as they severely crushed Henderson, Kentucky, 107-79, before a home crowd. It was the 14th RLC win, tying the mark set two years ago for the number of wins in a season.

Rend Lake took command of a quick 13-2 lead in the game and surged to a 52-31 halftime advantage. Early in the second half, the Wildcats cut the lead to 15 at 60-45. Then RLC ran up a 28 point lead and broke into their third 100 plus game of the season.
