Illinois Regional College Fair visiting RLC Sept. 23

BY REANNE PALMER

RLC PUBLIC INFORMATION

The Illinois Regional College Fair, formerly known as the Illinois College Exposition, is returning to the Rend Lake College campus this month to help students meet with representatives from colleges and universities across the country.

The free event begins at 6 p.m., Sept. 23, in the RLC James "Hummer" Waugh Gymnasium on the Ina campus and will feature more than 40 institutions. Parents and students are invited to attend and meet with officials from the colleges and universities the students are considering. The fair is open to high school students, RLC students, and anyone from the community who is interested.

Rachel Sveda, RLC Financial Aid and Admissions Coordinator, said the fair, sponsored by the Illinois Association of College Admission Counseling, is a great opportunity for students to gather information and ask questions to help them make the best decision for post-secondary education.

"The Illinois Regional College Fair has always helped potential students make an informed decision about what college or university they want to attend by giving them an opportunity to do some hands-on research," said Sveda. "The institutions' representatives will be able to answer questions about admissions, enrollment, scholarship opportunities, programs, and nearly anything else that can help attendees make this big decision. RLC is always excited to host an event like this for the students in our district."

Below are the colleges and universities who have registered for the fair at RLC. Students may attend the event without a parent or guardian present. For more information, contact Rachel Sveda at (618) 437-5321, Ext. 1298, or svedar@rlc.edu.

RLC students getting on board with SCT's county-campus service

BY SHELBY PATTERSON
CLOCKTOWER CHRONICLE STAFFWRITER

From new technology to brand-new classrooms, Rend Lake College has unveiled many changes since the start of the semester in August. With a new crop of incoming students from all over, one of the more noticeable changes has been the increase in students utilizing the South Central Transit bus service.

Since the Rend Lake campus is strictly a commuter-based college, accessing affordable and reliable transportation is one potential barrier students face while chasing their dreams and working toward degrees. Entirely online degrees are becoming more popular as culture becomes more technologically advanced and dependent. But they do not provide the same atmosphere and experience as the typical classroom setting. Courses like theatre, art, and music — just to name a few — can't really be taken online to maximize their effectiveness. Face time with instructors and other students is crucial. Transportation plays a major role in higher education at RLC. Reliable transportation is a must. Lack of it can result in missed classes, lower grades and even dropping out. Attendance policies are enforced and can be harmful to a class grade. But thanks to RLC's work with SCT, there is a means to end transportation difficulties for students.

There seem to be more students using South Central Transit's bus service to Rend Lake College. Shelby Patterson's story telling more about the service and how to get on board begins on page 1 of this week's Clocktower Chronicle. (Taylor Blankenship / Clocktower Chronicle Staff Photographer)

A majority of students need help paying for college – grants, loans, scholarships – and now those funds can be utilized more efficiently. Rend Lake students are now allowed to charge SCT money cards to their remaining financial aid funds, helping resolve transportation problems right at the start of the semester. Previously, students had to wait until mid-semester to access their money, when the remaining balances are released. Rachel Sveda of the campus financial aid department stated that, during the last academic year, 112 SCT money cards were sold to students. She added that the department is working hard to spread the word across campus and continue increasing the number of cards sold this year. For more information on getting a SCT money card, contact Sveda at (618) 437-5321, Ext. 1298, or by e-mail at svedar@rlc.edu. According to Sherri Bassen with SCT, 23 cards were sold to students just this past month. Bassen stated that the service provided more than 300 rides for students in the month of August alone – most traveling to and from Franklin County. As awareness of this service gets around, it is believed it will continue to grow. College can be stressful enough for students, but thanks to this service, transportation doesn't have to be one of those stresses.
